Two Boats Not Crushed.

Forty of the 126 persons lost from the steamship Volturno in mid-Atlantic were in the two boats which suc ceeded in getting away from the burn ing vessel and which without doubt were awamped. The majority of the other victims jost their lives when four other boats were smashed against the steamer's side in an at-

"The ropes broke and the people were thrown into the water and drowned or killed. When the captain saw what had happened he cut the tackle of the other boats, so they could not be launched.
